UNIVERSITY STUDIES

FOUR SERIES of monographic studies are published by the University of Illinois under the auspices of the Graduate School. These series, known collectively as "University Studies," are outgrowths of a general series formerly issued under that title. The Graduate School was first organized in 1892, though facilities for research had existed at the University for many years before. As it became necessary to provide some regular medium of publication for the articles and monographs produced by graduate students and members of the faculty, the "University Studies" were established in 1900. The general series, representing various departments and interests of the Graduate School, continued to 1913; it comprised four volumes, totaling twenty-seven numbers, which are omitted from the present list because many of them are out of print.

The series now known as Illinois Studies in the Social Sciences was begun in 1912. It consists primarily of monographs relating to history, economics, political science, and sociology.

A second series, Illinois Biological Monographs, begun in 1914, consists of monographic contributions of special merit in the biological sciences.

A third series, begun in 1915, now entitled Illinois Studies in Language and Literature, includes monographs in linguistics and literature and related studies in the history of culture and ideas.

A fourth series, entitled Illinois Medical and Dental Monographs, begun in 1935, consists of contributions from the fundamental and clinical departments of the Colleges of Medicine and Dentistry.

Each volume of the four current series is made up of four numbers, and the subscription price of each series is four dollars a volume. Individual numbers are sold at prices indicated in the following list. Requests for exchanges should be addressed to the Exchange Department, University of Illinois Library, Urbana, Illinois. Communications concerning sale or subscription should be addressed to the Director of the University of Illinois Press, Urbana, Illinois.
