A SUMMER'S EDUCATION

can be valuable and pleasant if you have a comfortable, convenient place to live and study while at the University this summer. With time so valuable in the present emergency, the extra credits summer session provides take on added importance.

Located just off campus, the residence halls operated by the University provide a student with living quarters which allow him to get the most from his summer's vacation as well as education. Quiet, cool rooms help him make the most of study, while recreational facilities provide pleasant diversion.

Both Illini Hall and the Men's New Residence Halls will be open for twelve weeks, including each six-week term.

UP TO THE MINUTE,

the Men's New Residence Halls, 1215 South Fourth Street, Champaign, across from Huff Gymnasium, were completed just last fall. In the modern buildings, each room is comfortably furnished with desk, I.E.S. study lamp, study chair, lounging chair, bed linens, bedspread, curtains, dresser, and individual closets. Other living conveniences are cooled water from drinking fountains on each floor, marble bathrooms, maid service, and architectural arrangement which allows a maximum of quiet.

Ready for advice on your problems, suggestions, or information is the counselor who lives in each house. Tasteful summer meals and cool beverages are planned by an expert dietician who supervises the dining room.

When it's time to relax from study, diversification is answered by two large recreation rooms furnished with ping pong equipment, card tables, and lounging chairs, by the varied facilities of the gymnasium across the street, and by baseball and soccer fields next to the halls and tennis courts a block away.

which add to the convenience of living in the hall are many. Laundry and pressing facilities and individual service for phone calls or mail are provided. There is storage space for baggage and bicycles, and express service is available at the desk. The store, located in the building and operated by the student association, sells sandwiches, soft drinks, candy, cigarettes, tobacco, pipes, shaving articles, soap, magazines, newspapers, and small drug items, as well as representing cleaners, laundries, and shoe repair shops for pickup and delivery.

ILLINI HALL,

completely refurnished in 1939, is across from the law building at 725 South Wright Street, Champaign. Housing nearly 90 men, it is within two blocks of the library, administration building, the campus broadwalk and open air concerts, tennis courts, the new union center, and the campus shopping district. Rooms are completely and comfortably furnished as in the Men's New Residence Halls. Meals are not served because of the convenience of the Illini Union Building, just across the street.
